Greater home and business security with our plug-and-play network DVRs and IP cameras

When your customers are away from home, they want to know that their families are safe. With our latest plug-and-play DVR kits installed in their home, they can rest easy. With remote viewing capabilities, users are able to log in to the device simply via the Internet using a unique ID number and password to access real-time audio and video – no matter where in the world they are.

As a preferred one-stop supplier, we provide complete security product solutions and services to clients in over 60 countries and regions. We're rapidly growing and supply some of the world's leading retailers, including B&Q, Home Depot, Costco and Argos. And, since we keep a stock of materials and finished products, we can complete regular orders in just 10 working days.

Furthermore, we stand out from the competition with our rigorous seven-step QC process, ensuring better quality products and integrated solutions. Plus, having forged close relationships with our partner suppliers, we can easily procure the quality components and software you require. We're looking for partners worldwide – contact us today.
